Harvesters

About the Event

The Harvesters dazzled nearly 400 attendees at its 23rd Annual Fashion Show and Luncheon at the beautiful Seegerstrom Center for the Arts in Costa Mesa, bringing together many of Orange County's most dedicated and generous philanthropists to benefit Second Harvest Food Bank in its fight to end hunger in our community.

The event, chaired by Harvesters Melissa Knode and Susan Croul, was kicked off with the Jaeger-LeCoultre champagne reception and a silent auction offering the latest luxury indulgences and one-of-a-kind experiences for the fashion-forward crowd to bid on.

The centerpiece of the highly-anticipated October 7th charitable event, sponsored by South Coast Plaza, was a runway show in the Samueli Theater where highlights from the season's most desirable fashions by iconic fashion houses and luxury brands such as Barbara Bui, Fendi, Lanvin, Marni, Max Mara, Moncler, Oscar de la Renta, Ralph Lauren, Roberto Cavalli, Salvatore Ferragamo, Valentino, and Versace were presented.

A luncheon followed with Harvesters and friends enjoying a fall-themed meal in the exquisitely decorated Rene & Henry Seegerstrom Concert Hall and was followed by an after party at the Center Club.

Event Impact

The event netted $675,000 for Second Harvest, enough to enable the charity to provide more than 2 million meals to hungry children, seniors and families in Orange County. Over the past 23 years, Harvesters annual campaigns have generated more than $6 million, or the equivalent of 18 million meals, for the charity.

The Need

Harvesters was founded in 1992 by a group of dedicated women who have worked tirelessly to raise funds and awareness to help Second Harvest achieve its mission of ending hunger in Orange County.

350,000 people in OC at risk of hunger
1 in 5 children missing meals
45% of seniors can't afford basic necessities

Hunger affects our most vulnerable populations—seniors, children, the working poor, the unemployed, and the homeless. With Orange County's high cost of living, many find it impossible to make ends meet. Most of those in need are working families, but costly rents and rising medical expenses make survival a daily struggle.

Second Harvest Food Bank has been feeding the hungry since 1983 by providing food to a county-wide network of 300 school and church pantries, soup kitchens, and shelters for abused women and children. For information on how you can help in the fight to end hunger in our community, call 949.653.2900 or visit FeedOC.org.

CYSTINOSIS RESEARCH FOUNDATION

The Wish that Changed the World

Perseverance against insurmountable odds and a refusal to accept failure are the cornerstones on which the Cystinosis Research Foundation (CRF) was built.

When Nancy and Jeff Stack founded CRF in 2003, they understood the monumental challenges they faced in finding a cure for cystinosis – a rare, inherited, metabolic disease. They recognized how long and winding the road might be, but they took the first critical steps.

Along the way, others joined the quest. Today, thousands of people across the United States and throughout the world have helped to raise over $30.7 million for cystinosis research.

Medication is available to control some of the symptoms of this insidious disease, but cystinosis remains incurable.

Fortunately, with each passing day we draw closer to reaching CRF's bold vision of finding the cure for cystinosis.

While much has already been done, there is still much more to do.
